FLORIST

Wedding Flowers

In this presentation I have included lots of examples of my work.

These are simply a starting point, I have included some prices, where it's necessary for me to see the venue and the fixings first, I can't give fixed prices for those, so if there is something else you have in mind please send me an inspiration image - I would love to hear your ideas.

You may have given some thought by now in to colour combinations to complement your day, Your Pinterest board is my go-to when i'm designing your flowers, so it's useful to have images that reflect your preferred colours, shape and style for me to use as a reference.

I will always be realistic about what can be achieved with flowers, there are some colours that we can try to get close to but never fully achieve. You may have specific flowers you want to include and I will do my absolute best however it will depend on seasonal availability and minimum orders as to whether I can include them. I work with some very good local growers and overseas suppliers and ensure all flowers are of very high quality and freshness.

The Brides bouquet is the most considered item of a wedding it takes a lot of time considering flower placements and angles to get the perfect shapes and textures right for maximum impact in photographs.

Over sized bouquets require a supporting frame as well as additional flowers and foliage.

Looking for something else?

I can create many different shapes and styles of bouquets, and would love to discuss any ideas you have.

Prices on enquiry.

The Button Hole

Most commonly a button hole consists of one focal flower, with some sprigs of foliage and small flowers. All my button holes are fully bound and sealed to the ends to last longer, and come with a broach pin these are much safer than a floristry pin as they have a stopper and they are stronger to go through the heavier fabrics of suits worn on the day.

I can use instead magnets if required.

You may want to opt for a Boutonnière which is lots of smaller flowers. or pocket Boutonnières are also popular now.

Button Holes are £10.00 each
